

New Garden Museum takes root inside church (Evening Standard)

Contributed by Webmaster
Friday, 31 October 2008
Last Updated Friday, 31 October 2008

More info...

A MUSEUM devoted to the art of gardening has been built inside a medieval church on the banks of the Thames. It took just four weeks to build the Garden Museum, using prefabricated wooden panels from Switzerland.

Beloved gardening writer, teacher dies Tuesday (Camden Chronicle Independent)

To read the rest of this story, pick up a copy of the Chronicle-Independent. To subscribe to the C-I, click here: Subscribe Now!

Gardening